It was a trip I'll never forget. Let me tell you how it all started. Being raised in a family of lawyer and businessman, my sister and I never knew what it was like to spend holidays with parents as they always were extremely busy. But one day my dad<sup>50</sup> came up to my mom and said: "Enough of this routine. Life is passing by and the only thing we do is work." Three hours later we were moving towards our car with the tent and backpacks full of food and warm clothes. Doing something challenging as a road trip<sup>100</sup> turned out to be the great way to spice up our lives.

My mom is an organised woman, so she planned everything in the blink of an eye. She was holding a map, saying my dad, who was driving, where he should turn. My dad, by the way, completely relied<sup>150</sup> on her and he wouldn't believe that anything could go wrong. But it did. My dad looked at my mom who was silent for a few minutes and what he saw was her confused and a bit scared face. She didn't know where we were, neither did he. They started<sup>100</sup> arguing, yelling at each other. I immediately put my headphones on not to hear them. "I don't want these holidays to be spoilt" - I thought to myself. I turned off the music and heard that my mom was calling my dad ignorant. My sister was crying. I asked my dad<sup>200</sup> to stop the car. When he did and we came out, I talked to them trying to calm them down. I said how much I loved them and how I want these holidays to be memorable in a good way.

After they stopped arguing I took this picture.

It was my very first trip and I'll never forget it.
