It was a trip I'll never forget. Everything started when my mother decided to show us (my sister, Anna, and me) Lake Baikal. One morning she came into our bedroom and whispered (she didn't want to disturb my sleeping sister): 'We're staying near Lake Baikal for a week, pack your clothes, ⁵¹ we're leaving tomorrow'. I wasn't surprised, I was used to her sudden decisions and it was very challenging to convince her not to go.

My mother's ~~an~~ an ~~very~~ active woman, who loves adventures almost as much as she loves us. It's impossible to count all bizarre stories she can tell if ¹⁰ someone asks and she's an experienced traveller. But that time everything went wrong, our car broke in the middle of the road. My father, who is usually calm and kind, was very angry. 'I'm fed up with these sudden trips, it's your fault, what are we going to do now?' Anna started - he shouted. Anna started to cry and I was ~~was~~ confused. We went out of the car to call for help and suddenly noticed how beautiful the bewildering nature was. The atmosphere of that place made us regret about our behaviour. 'Sorry, I was rude' - ~~she~~ said my father. 'That's OK, ²⁰'. We sat on a lying tree, Anna began to play with parents and laugh. Then the help arrived.

Maybe that trip wasn't ideal but it taught us to appreciate each other and made us understand how much we ~~need~~ ~~the same~~ love being together. No matter what happens in life we'll always find support and love in our family. 256
